Want to Be Happily Married? Go to College. (This is a fun article. Read the entire Newsweek article online with this hot link to see if you agree.)

Newsweek - Jan 31, 2010

There was a time, not that long ago, when women were considered smart if they played dumb to a get a man, and women who went to college were more interested in getting a "Mrs. degree" than a bachelor's...

Financial Aid Deadline is March 2nd - 22 more days

You still have a chance to get money for college.

Financial Aid is available for Community Colleges, too

Ok, You're on the late show BIG TIME, but the clock is running out and the financial aid deadline is Monday, March 2nd.

Believe it or not, you still have a chance for funds IF your application is postmarked by that date.

Be sure to get a certificate of mailing at the Post Office to protect your application for the deadline if you send a hard copy.

Don't be embarrassed that you waited until the last few weeks of the application period to get your stuff in. You're only human, but you'll be a poor human if you don't get your form in. Come in to the Counseling office for help. Filling out the form will take only about an hour of your time.

Student Employment Services

-- Job Listings --

SRJC Student Employment Services has listings for both On Campus and Off Campus jobs. On Campus jobs require enrollment in at least 6 units during the Fall and Spring semesters, and at least .5 units for the summer session. Off campus job listings come into Student Employment Services from local and community based organizations seeking SRJC students and alumni for employment. All HHS students can apply for the off campus jobs.

Jobs are available in the following categories: business, child care, clerical, computer, delivery, food service, health services, housework, labor, live in, sales, seasonal, tutoring, winery, and more. After browsing the job listings on the SRJC web page, if you find a job opening you think you might be interested in use the employer contact information on the listing to contact the employer directly.

To see these great job possibilities go the SRJC's web page at <http://www.santarosa.edu>. Then go to Student Services, then to Career Development and finally to Student Employment. Jobs are hard to find these days. Sometimes we need all the help we can get.

Please Note

The employer requested method of contact is part of the listing. If you are unsure about an employer contact, you may still feel free to contact Student Employment Services at (707) 527-4476.
